The European Central Bank (ECB) was seeking through this open procedure a supplier for the provision of temporary labour for financial accounting operations and intended to award framework contracts (the 'Contract') with a duration of 4 years to a maximum of 6 providers, if available, offering the best value for money.

The temporary labour was sought for three profiles: (a) profile 1 — Junior Accountant Accounting operations (b) profile 2 — Junior Accountant Functional Support, and (c) Senior Accountant, Accounting.

The successful Tenderers shall supply the staff in accordance with the requirements laid down in the German Act concerning the supply of temporary labour ("Arbeitnehmerüberlassungsgesetz" (AÜG)) and the requirements set out in the draft framework agreement. Therefore Tenderers shall hold or at least have applied for a permit to supply temporary labour as part of their business in accordance with § 1(1) of AÜG. The permit must be issued by the competent German employment office. It must be available at the latest when the ECB decides on the award of the contract. According to German Labour Law. It is not sufficient, that this permit is held by a subcontractor. Tenderers not having such permit at this point in time will be excluded. The successful Tenderers will be awarded a framework agreement for the supply of temporary labour, a draft of which is attached as Annex 3.

Moreover, Tenderers shall represent and warrant that they ensure equal treatment including equal pay or employs its Staff members under a valid collective agreement justifying deviation from these principles according to § 8 AÜG. Tenderers represent and warrant their compliance with all statutory and/or collectively agreed minimum wage levels.
